

Play

Manningham Leader

Thespians Jenter Zilm, Felicity Eastwood, Suzanne Tate, Latecha Cadle, Jenifer Biggs and Eleanor Horsburgh are presenting a play about love. Picture: MARK WILSON N19DT452

Love scenarios to digest

Danielle Crowe

A NEW show exploring the complications of love, relationships and life is coming to the Doncaster Playhouse.

The bold, mischievous and sharp production tackles the dramas, difficulties and delightful moments in different kinds of relationships.

Set to a popular and eclectic array of Broadway show tunes, I'm Perfect, I'll Change You, That's Love! highlights some of the most familiar situations facing couples today. In the show, theatre company PEP Productions takes the controversy of relationships out of the closet and puts it on stage.

Director Julia Roper described the show as a cheeky look at life. "From dating to love tiffs and weddings, to married life, I am convinced there will be at least one moment where the action on stage is all too familiar," Roper said.

One of the 11 cast members, Kate Burns, of Warrandyte, said the show was of particular interest because it had a theme everyone could relate to. "It's a great ensemble of music, dance and a look at various kinds of relationships, including family, friends and children," Burns said.

Like relationships, the production explores the highs and lows of life. "We wanted to give the show more depth by exploring non-conventional relationships, infidelity, heartache and attempts at reconciliation," Roper said. "We also look at self-image, rejection, communication breakdowns, and long-distance relationships."

>> I'm Perfect, I'll Change You, That's Love! is on from November 20 to 22 at the Doncaster Playhouse, 679 Doncaster Rd. Bookings: 0423 935 320.

Exercise your right to a healthier life.

Community Health Services promote healthy living for everyone. You will find that we have programs that will increase your mobility, improve your fitness and diet and could help you live a long and healthy life. It's your choice. Call 8841 3000 to find out more.

Manningham Community Health Service

COMMUNITY HEALTH services